

"NO" to any changes in regards to the code requirement for amateur license. Keep the code or the amateur bands will be another "CB" mess! The 5 WPM is so easy that if one wants a license now requiring the code take the time to learn it. A little effort can give many rewards in the future. The written test has been made so easy that it is nothing more than remember the answers to some questions. One needs no knowledge of electronics. I guess the wanta-bees will next want the written test removed as being too hard to memorize. KEEP THE CODE!!!!!!!!!!!!
